By LOUIS NEVIN
LONDON (AP) — The West's central bankers, having moved closer to freeing world money from its chains of gold, may take a further step in Stockholm this week toward turning the metal over to the jewelers wholesale.

That is the belief of Britain's top economists.

They see the establishment of a two-tier—a free and an official—market for gold as a logical answer to the recent gold panic.

Before the central bankers voted this system at Washington March 17, world currencies were related to each other by being exchangeable into gold at a fixed rate of $35 a fine ounce. This was an artificially set price for all comers, governments, jewelers, hoarders and speculators.

No Need For Gold
The bankers decided to let private buyers of gold fight it out among themselves at whatever price they can get for whatever supplies are not in the hands of central bankers.

The bankers have reserved for themselves continuance of the $35 price. When the central bankers exchange gold at that price, they are exchanging pure units of account with a purely arbitrary bookkeeping value.

In that case, economists here argue, they have no need for gold at all. A simple international understanding to continue exchanging their currencies at that rate would suffice, provided safeguards against cheating could be set up.

Drawing Rights
In Stockholm next Friday, delegates of 10 wealthy nations known as the Group of 10 meet to create the purest of purely credit money. Its units don't even have a name but are known as SDRs, standing for special drawing rights. One of them wouldn't buy a cup of coffee but the United States wants $2 billion worth of these governmental units of credit to be created each year.

That amount is roughly the average annual increase of world trade. At the present time, world trade has a volume of roughly $71 billion. There is only $45 billion worth of gold to finance that trade and last year not one ounce of newly mined gold found its way into the vaults of government banks. It all went to hoarders and speculators.

No Balance Of Payments
The difference between $45 billion and $71 billion was financed by dollars and pounds sterling pouring out of the United States and Britain.

The two countries for years have been buying, spending and lending more abroad than they were taking in. Their foreign payments deficits were covering the increasing volume of foreign trade.

Everything went merrily until people in Europe and even in

Doctor Tries New Approach: Seeks To Starve Cancer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A new line of attack against cancer—starving the tumorous mass by cutting off its blood supply—is reported by a research scientist.

Dr. Melvin Greenblatt of the Chicago Medical School said studies with hamsters indicate tumors make a chemical which signals surrounding parts of the body to grow new blood vessels to feed them.

"If we can identify the substance, it may be possible to produce antibodies against it," he told an American Cancer Society symposium for scientists writers Sunday. "This would interrupt the chemical signal, stop the growth of new blood vessels and thus starve the tumor."

Antibodies are substances the body produces to fight disease-causing material.

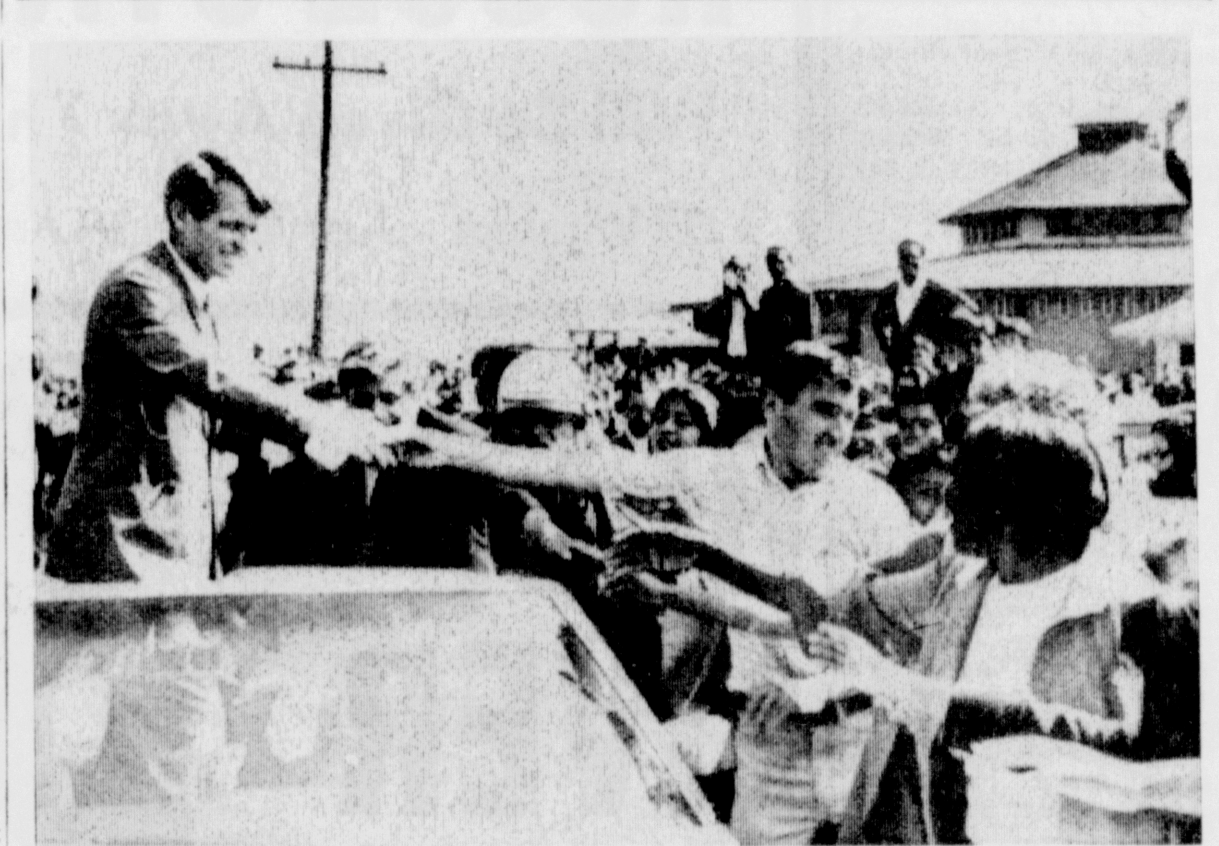

Growth of new blood vessels is a process normally triggered by cuts or bruises. Wounded areas are supplied with new blood vessels to replace those severed or damaged.

Dr. Greenblatt found that tumors call forth a similar response in tests with hamsters. After baring a membrane on the cheek pouch, he covered it with porous filter paper, then placed cancerous tissue on the paper.

A chemical made by the cancer filtered through the paper and started growth of new blood vessels in the normal membrane below the paper. If the paper had not been there, the vessels would have extended into the cancer, supplying it with blood for growth.

Dr. Greenblatt said studies are under way to see if a similar chemical is involved in human cancer.

'No Race War,' Cong's Sampans Fought From Air

NEW YORK (AP) — Deposed Congressman Adam Clayton Powell predicts "civil war" by young people over the nation's race situation.

Powell, back from an 18-month self-imposed exile in Bimini, the Bahamas, roared an emphatic "no!" when asked at a news conference Sunday if he envisioned a race war this summer.

But, Powell added, he believed that both white and black youths would join in battling the "white power" structure.

The 59-year-old Powell, who returned Friday night to a tumultuous welcome in Harlem, said he came home to purge his district of "Uncle Toms."

Meanwhile the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said at a news conference in Harlem Sunday that he is still committed to nonviolence "and I think the vast majority of Negroes think that way."

The Nobel Peace Prize winner said he was reluctant to predict riots this summer because "predicting them is like inviting them."

Powell also delivered a short sermon at the Abyssinian Baptist Church, where he has been pastor for many years.

Powell, a Democrat, was ousted from Congress on charges of misusing public funds.

SAIGON (AP) — American helicopter gunships and fighter-bombers have smashed 245 sampans carrying weapons and food to Viet Cong troops in the Mekong Delta in the last three days, the U.S. Command said today.

Gunships destroyed 114 sampans and damaged another 50 Sunday at an enemy base camp near the Cambodian border, headquarters said. Pilots spotted the flotilla while flying support missions for South Vietnamese civilian irregulars and their U.S. Special Forces advisers fighting the Viet Cong 116 miles southwest of Saigon.

Headquarters said 20 Viet Cong soldiers were killed and 43 huts destroyed. It reported two civilian irregulars wounded.

Spot Flotilla
Earlier Sunday, South Vietnamese infantrymen spotted a force estimated as a battalion moving in sampans near the delta city of Sa Dec, 80 miles southwest of Saigon, and called in air strikes. U.S. pilots reported sinking 36 sampans and said the enemy fled into nearby woods.

Numerous secondary explosions have been reported after the recent attacks on the sampans, indicating they were carrying ammunition or fuel.

U.S. officials said the volume of war supplies, presumably coming from Cambodia along many rivers and canals, has increased considerably in recent days.

This indicates the Viet Cong may be replenishing supplies depleted during their lunar new year offensive for possible fresh attacks in the delta. U.S. officials said the allies have begun a major effort to stop the sampan traffic.

Down Helicopters
On South Vietnam's northern frontier, North Vietnamese gunners shot down two U.S. Marine helicopters near Khe Sanh. One, a gunship, was attacking an enemy bunker complex two miles northwest of the Marine fortress. Its four crewmen were rescued but suffered burns when the chopper crashed.

A Marine patrol had called for gunships and artillery support after clashing briefly with the

Bastion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Marine Corps commandant says the Communist North Vietnamese "can't force us out" of besieged Khe Sanh by bombarding its airstrip into uselessness and preventing its resupply.

Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr. said, "We've got ample helicopter capability which doesn't need any airstrip and we also have an air-drop capability."

The 15,000 or more Communist troops threatening the Marine-held bastion in northwestern South Vietnam have intensified their bombardment of Khe Sanh in recent days.

enemy platoon. It reported 31 North Vietnamese soldiers and five Marines were killed and four Marines wounded.

Enemy groundfire also hit a big CH-46 Seaknight helicopter landing with cargo five miles southwest of Camp Carroll, the artillery base to the east that supports Khe Sanh. Although moderately damaged, the helicopter landed safely and the crew was uninjured, spokesmen said.

About 100 shells hit the Khe Sanh base Sunday, a sharp drop from the more than 600 rounds fired into the fortress on each of the two previous days. Casualties were reported light.

In reply to the earlier heavy shelling, U.S. B-52 bombers dropped as much as 1,000 tons of explosives Saturday night and Sunday on suspected positions of the estimated 16,000 enemy troops believed encircling Khe Sanh. The eight-engine Stratofortresses flew six more raids Sunday night and today.

The White House declined comment on Sunday's tentative settlements.

Irish Plane Down At Sea; 61 Feared Lost

Javits Pushing Rockefeller As Draft Favorite

WASHINGTON (AP) — GOP moderates who had urged Nelson A. Rockefeller to seek the party's presidential nomination have formed a nationwide "Coalition for a Republican Alternative."

And Sen. Jacob K. Javits says he will push for a Rockefeller favorite-son candidacy in New York State, a move he predicted would stir up national interest in Rockefeller for the nomination.

Rockefeller announced last week he won't be an active candidate but left the door open for a possible draft.

Word of the coalition came Sunday from Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., who denied it was a move to stop Richard M. Nixon from getting the nomination. The aim, Morton said, is to generate debate among Republicans on Vietnam and other issues.

Morton reportedly had been in line to manage any Rockefeller campaign.

Financing Pledged
The coalition was disclosed by Morton in a television interview and formally announced in New York by Stewart R. Mott.

Mott, son of multimillionaire philanthropist Charles Stewart Mott, had previously pledged his readiness to help finance Rockefeller's campaign if he ran.

Javits, Morton and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said Nixon does not have the nomination sewed up.

Javits said he will nominate Rockefeller to be New York's favorite son at the Republican state committee meeting in Albany, N.Y., Wednesday.

Nixon Foes Cool
—Republican governors are abandoning efforts to line up support for a moderate to oppose Nixon, said Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee. He will concentrate instead on pressing for what he called progressive planks in the party platform.

—Newsweek magazine said a survey of Democratic convention delegates shows President Johnson is "in real danger of being dumped" if he makes his expected bid for renomination.

Newsweek said its survey showed Johnson has a possible total of 1,530 delegate votes, but only 363 were "hard" and the others were leaning toward him out of courtesy, "Leaning" toward Kennedy are 507, and "leaning" toward McCarthy are 235 with 350 uncommitted, Newsweek said. Needed for nomination: 1,312 votes.

Stop Johnson?
—A New York Times survey of Democratic state leaders indicated Johnson could win more than 65 per cent of delegate votes if the convention were held today. The Times said Johnson was judged to control 1,725 votes, with a combined total of 790 for Kennedy and McCarthy. But several leaders indicated increased Kennedy activity in their states could force a revision in their estimates.

LBJ Foes Fail To Tie Up State Demo Delegates

EAST LANSING (AP) — Anti-Johnson forces failed Sunday in the opening move of an attempt to send to the Democratic National Convention a Michigan delegation united behind a favorite son candidate.

The move came as the committee, meeting at Michigan State University, discussed a resolution allocating Michigan's 100 delegates and 94 alternates to the Aug. 26 convention in Chicago.

The convention delegates could be forced to choose between President Johnson, Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota or Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York as the party's presidential nominee.

Otto Feinstein of Detroit, executive secretary of the Michigan McCarthy for President Committee, offered an amendment urging party leaders to "consider means of achieving unity around the issues of peace and justice at home and abroad."

Loses 45-7

Such action is necessary, the amendment said, "before the conflict around the issues which has already rent asunder the Democratic party on the national level has a similar effect in Michigan."

The committee approved the resolution, but in a 45-7 vote, turned down the amendment as not germane.

Feinstein, former State Chairman Zolton Ferency, and several other Johnson foes urged last week that the committee call for a delegation "committed to issues and a favorite son who represents those issues."

The amendment was opposed by National Committeeman Neil Staebler of Ann Arbor and others who urged that party members be given a full opportunity to express themselves before commitments are made.

Seek Officer Role

Meanwhile, State Chairman Sen. Sander Levin of Berkeley said State Central Committee officers are attempting to decide what role they should play in helping the party reach a decision on candidates and issues.

The officers, he said, are committed to work for "full and open dialogue on issues and candidates" at all party levels.

The question, he said, "is whether we ourselves can participate regarding candidates" without undermining the goal of insuring open debate throughout the party.

The officers are engaged in discussions within the party on the question and, for the time being, have agreed not to work actively in the state for a preferred candidate, Levin said.

Staebler Committed

At least one officer, Staebler, already is committed to President Johnson and has worked in his behalf in Wisconsin, site of the next presidential primary.

But Staebler pointed out that his commitment was made

Wreckage And Bodies Found Near Wexford

FISGUARD, Wales (AP) — Bodies and bits of wreckage were found today near where an Irish airliner plunged spinning into the Irish Sea Sunday with 61 persons aboard. Hope has almost been abandoned for finding any survivors.

The British Air-Sea Rescue Center, directing the search, said a frigate had picked up two bodies and sighted a third.

Wreckage was found, too, about eight miles off Rosslare Point, Wexford, Ireland.

The last cryptic message from the pilot said "...at least 1,000 feet...spinning rapidly."

Lifeboats from Kilmore and Dummore on the Irish coast put to sea and an Irish Army helicopter joined the search for more bodies and wreckage.

Patrol Shores

On shore, squads of police from Wexford and Rosslare patrolled the beaches, should anything be washed up there.

The British navy frigate HMS Hardy reported she would put into Rosslare harbor tonight with three bodies and some wreckage.

The finding of the bodies, closer to the Irish coast than expected, drew an armada of vessels which had been concentrating the search nearer the British mainland.

Royal Air Force Shackleton aircraft also moved in to help.

Investigators urgently needed wreckage from the Aer Lingus British-built Viscount airliner to provide clues as to the reason for the crash.

Capt. Gordon Black, air safety officer for Aer Lingus, said earlier, "The thing is a complete mystery."

No Americans Aboard

No Americans were known to have been aboard the plane, which was on a scheduled flight from Cork to London. The passengers included nine Swiss citizens who had been on a fishing vacation in southern Ireland.

Seconds before the crash, another Irish airliner in the area picked up a radio message apparently from the ill-fated plane that it was spinning at 1,000 feet.

The message, much of it lost in background noise, was: "We moved ... breaking up ... that's better ... Who are you talking to? ... 1,000 feet, spinning rapidly"

An airline spokesman said the weather at the time of the crash was normal and "nothing that a Viscount could not cope with." However, rain swept in from the west later in the day and hampered search operations.

First Spin Case

The spokesman added that the airline "never had experience of an aircraft spinning before, nor do I know of any other case."

He said the plane had been in service for about 12 years.

St. George's Channel, a part of the Irish Sea where the search is centered, is about 600 feet deep. A Royal Navy spokesman said deep-sea sounding equipment would probably be used if no debris is found in the next day or two.

The master of the German ship Metric said a deckhand had reported seeing a column of water in the area about the time the airliner is presumed to have crashed.

The crash appeared likely to be the worst in the 37-year history of the state-owned airline and its first fatal accident in 16 years.

Copper Talks Reach Tentative Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — All four of the nation's giant copper producers have now reached tentative wage-hike agreements with their unions but it still is not known when thousands of workers will return to their jobs, ending an eight-month strike.

Anaconda Co. and American Smelting & Refining Co., announced Sunday tentative settlements covering more than 15,000 strikers. But they said local issues still must be ironed out at their 28 mines and factories spread over a 14-state area.

In addition, ratification of the new pacts has yet to be voted upon by 15,000 Anaconda-American Smelting workers or by 10,000 others at Kennecott Copper Corp.

Contributing to the uncertainty of when production will be resumed on a wide scale, settlements also must be reached covering another 10,000 workers at Kennecott and Anaconda plants.

A total of 26 unions a wide variety of skilled jobs are involved in the complex strike.

"I don't know when they're going back to work," said an industry spokesman after the new agreements were announced.

The fourth big producer, Phelps Dodge, reached agreement last week with 6,500 workers and they are the only strikers back on the job at major plants. Several smaller firms settled earlier with a total of about 10,000 employees.

The Phelps Dodge pact provides a 54-cent hourly pay hike over 40 months plus fringe benefits which bring the hourly hike to $1.13. The new agreements are in this range.

President Johnson summoned both sides to Washington three weeks ago for White House talks aimed at settling the prolonged dispute. He said it was threatening the nation's economy as well as its defense effort.

Wages before the strike averaged $3.28 hourly for copper miners, $3.16 for smelting and refining workers and $2.71 for wire and cable-fabricating workers.

The White House declined comment on Sunday's tentative settlements.

Sheltered Workshop Gets Approval; Site Not Set

MARQUETTE — Members of the Sheltered Workshop Advisory Committee voted here Thursday night to continue their efforts to establish a non-profit corporation to serve the handicapped of Alger, Delta and Marquette counties.

They appointed a nominating committee, headed by Stanley Cornelius of Ishpeming, William Evert of Marquette, Dr. George Maniaci of Gladstone and Robert Ranguette personnel director for the Kimberly-Clark Co. in Munising, who will present the committee a slate of officers at its next meeting at Northern Michigan University, Wednesday, April 10.

The group heard Don Jackson, of NMU's Public Services Division report on the progress of his division's feasibility study of the project, a study made possible by a $9,420 grant last fall from the Vocational Rehabilitation Administration in Washington.

He said survey results show that the proposed organization could serve about 250 emotionally and physically handicapped persons in the tri-county area.

Industry Interested

Industry in the area shows interest in the program, Jackson said, but does not know how to develop contracts.

Both Jackson and Richard

Bufkin of the State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation emphasized the importance of industrial co-operation if the project is to succeed.

Construction of the workshop facility hinges on obtaining at least $75,000 in contract work from industries throughout the state. Work at the center would be similar to that done by persons employed in Goodwill Industries.

Total capital outlay for the facility is estimated at $350,000, potentially two-thirds of which would be federally financed. The annual estimated cost of running the workshop is $235,425.

Approve Proceeding

Jackson asked the committee "should we proceed? If so, how? And finally, for whom?"

The committee agreed to the first question affirmatively but

Bankers Move To Free Money From Gold Base

America and Britain began to get worried and started changing their dollars and pounds into gold.

This steady drain brought the crash of the weaker of the two reserve currencies. The pound was devalued Nov. 18 and the attack on the dollar began.

Gold Siphoned

Gold was siphoned out of the vaults of the seven central bankers through the international gold pool set up in 1960. The gold pool, operated through the Bank of England, bought up or sold whatever gold was needed to steady the market. It worked well until the run on the bank began last November.

In Washington the seven central bankers, who were eight until France had enough last June and walked out, all but closed down the gold pool for good, since they agreed to end the supply of gold to private, non-governmental buyers.

Britain's gold market, the largest in the world, was shut down on the eve of the Washington meeting until next Monday. When it reopens it will operate like the markets in Paris, Zurich or Hong Kong, buying and selling whatever free, non-monetary gold comes on the market.

Dramatize Gold

The London market will presumably also handle whatever new gold South Africa sells by agreement through the Bank of England. But Johannesburg doesn't seem in any hurry to sell its gold these days, pending clarification of the intentions of the central bankers.

Thus, said Prof. Harry G. Johnson of the London School of Economics in The Times, the speculators by their panic raid on gold have hastened "the demonization of gold and its replacement by a credit money, the only rational solution to the fundamental irrationality of an international monetary system based on gold."

Speculators and hoarders have already bought up enough gold to supply the jewelry market for a long time.

The ginkgo tree is often called a living fossil.

Christ The King Awards Contract On New Building

Members of Christ The King Lutheran Church Sunday accepted the low bid of Howard Herrild Builders, Menominee, in the amount of $162,698 for construction of a new church.

Subcontractors for the project will be Berger & Robinson Heating, Plumbing and Electrical of Escanaba for the mechanical contract and Kobas

Electric, also of Escanaba, for the electrical work.

Demolition of the present church is expected to begin shortly after April 1 with construction of the new facility to follow immediately. Completion is expected by December.

Total cost of the new church, including pews, chancel furnishings, carpeting, organ with chime system in tower, Sunday school and office furnishings architectural fees and insurance, is not expected to exceed $190,000.

Next Sunday, the last worship service of Holy Communion will be administered in the present church. Following next Sunday's services, formal ground-breaking ceremonies will be conducted.

Until completion of the building project the congregation will worship at the Webster elementary school.

Rev. Erland E. Carlson is pastor of the church. Worship services Sundays are at 8 and 11 a.m.

3,262 In State Draft For May

LANSING (AP) — Michigan local draft boards have been ordered to deliver 3,262 men for induction into the Army during May, state selective Service headquarters said today.

The May call compares with 3,664 for April and 2,976 in March.

For the second month in a row, local boards are authorized to meet the May call by induction of registrants married on or before Aug. 26, 1965, who have no children.

Such inductions, authorized in April for the first time since late in 1966, are to be made if sufficient volunteers and single registrants are not available.

Induction age limits are 19 through 25, with the oldest registrants selected first.

The draft call for U. P. counties:

Alger 3, Baraga 6, Chippewa 24, Delta 16, Dickinson 1, Gogebic 4, Houghton 13, Iron 1, Keweenaw 1, Luce 9, Mackinac 9, Marquette 5, Menominee 12, Ontonagon 7, Schoolcraft 3.

But, he added, "I am not creating any publicity (for Johnson) either in Michigan or in Wisconsin."

Furnishing Beer Charged Sunday

A Rapid River man has been ordered to appear in Municipal Court in Escanaba on a charge of furnishing beer to minors.

State Police said Edward F. Johnson, 26, was arrested about 11 p.m. Sunday at or his car was stopped in Gladstone.

Officers also cited Edward Clausen, 20, of 812 N. 15th St., Gladstone, and a 16-year-old boy for being minors in possession of beer.

Eagles Club Victim:

Burglar Gets Over $1,000

The burglary of the Eagles Club House at 608 Ludington St., early Sunday, with the loss of more than $1,000, apparently brought to authorities information which resulted in the arrest of at least one person.

Prosecuting Attorney Nicholas P. Chapek is not available to comment for publication before noon today, although he was reviewing reports assembled by city police in their investigation of the case.

More than $1,000 was taken from the safe and cash box at the Eagles Club sometime after midnight Saturday, said Police Chief Richard Frederick. The breaking and entering was reported to police on Sunday.

On Saturday at 1:15 p. m., the city police were informed by John Baker of the Eagles Club of a discrepancy in club funds and that there had been a breaking and entering.

The discrepancy in the amount of $159 had been discovered on Tuesday, police were informed. There had been a forcible entrance to the inside office, but $600 in cash had been untouched, police were told.

Among the recent breakings and enterings reported was the office of Dr. Francis Anderson, 218 S. 10th St., where a window was broken on the west side of the building. The cash register had been opened and $20 was missing. Spots of blood on the floor indicated the thief had cut his hand in breaking the window.

There have been more than a dozen complaints to police of burglaries in the city over the past week or 10 days. Additional patrols were put on, citizens watchfulness was requested, and police waited for what they termed a "break" in the series of burglaries.

The list of places entered indicated the possibility that more than one person was involved, and officers at one time almost caught an intruder who had broken into the Hoyler & Bauer office at 1924 Ludington St. The man escaped from the building only minutes before police arrived in response to an alarm.

Besides Hoyler & Bauer, the list includes:

Harnischfeger Credit Union, 3rd Ave. N.; city recreation Club 314 on S. 14th St.; Stegath Lumber Co.; Washington School; State Highway Department.

Others included Dr. A. A. Gosan office, 113 S. 12th St.; Bethany Lutheran Church, 202 S. 11th St.; the Juel Lee residence, 1715 Lake Shore Drive; Kryn Bloom home, 1815 10th Ave. S.

Youth, 17, Faces B&E Arraignment

Terry Monson, 17, formerly of 330 N. 14th St., was bound over to Circuit Court Saturday by Municipal Judge James Fitzharris after he waived examination on a charge of breaking and entering.

Monson remained free after posting $1,000 bond.

Delta County Sheriff's officers said Monson was charged with the breaking and entering last year of the Breezy Point Bar. Paul E. Johnson, 22, of 1008 2nd Ave. N., is also scheduled to be arraigned in Circuit Court on the same charge.

Primary Next Door

Vice President Hubert Humphrey was in Wisconsin in the weekend campaigning for President Johnson and former Vice President Richard Nixon was there campaigning for himself. So was U. S. Senator Eugene McCarthy, who is opposing the President for the Democratic nomination.

On Thursday Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman was heckled into silence at the University of Wisconsin when he attempted to defend President Johnson's policies.

Wisconsin votes in its Presidential primary on April 2.

We can see from the Upper Peninsula the national presidential campaign begin to unfold in neighboring Wisconsin. There's a big missing element in the primary there, of course, in the absence of U. S. Senator Robert Kennedy, who, like McCarthy, is challenging the President for the Democratic nomination.

In a very short period the national issue of the presidency moved from what seemed like a settled situation into an unsettled one. The Democrats who expected President Johnson to be renominated with some vocal, but no candidate opposition are now confronted with a three-legged race in which both McCarthy and Kennedy are opposing the President.

The present indication is that McCarthy is riding a groundswell of national support based on idealism and that he appeals to the conscience of many people of both parties for his courage in opposing the Johnson stand on Vietnam, and in entering the New Hampshire primary with very little support from fellow Democrats. Many of them admire him, but they chickened out before the awesome power of the presidency.

A poll forecast that McCarthy would get 11 per cent of the Democratic vote in New Hampshire and that the President would get 62 per cent. McCarthy got a surprising 42 per cent.

But the political audit of assets in the Democratic campaign shows Kennedy with much more firepower than McCarthy and it establishes him as the most likely choice for the nomination if President Johnson can be beaten in the Democratic convention.

The process which we are watching in New Hampshire, Wisconsin, California, Oregon and the other states with presidential primaries is really concerned with the creeks and not the rivers of national politics. The primaries can be more important in shaping public preference for a candidate than they are in the power train of electing a nominee. Only a fraction of the 2,672 delegates to the Democratic convention are named in the state presidential primaries.

What party leaders in the non-primary states think of a candidate's chances is crucial to nomination and they are mindful of the awesome odds against unseating an incumbent President by his own party's repudiation. Their strong inclination is to keep the man who is in office. Working against this inclination in the case of President Johnson is the amply clear evidence that his Vietnam war policy is unpopular and that he is also, partly because of this, personally unpopular.

Kennedy is suggesting that it will be necessary to have a change of administration to get a change of policy. McCarthy was suggesting the same thing, before Kennedy.

The dialogue of the Democratic campaign should be helpful to a national appraisal of issues, and especially the war issue. It could be more meaningful than the debate between the Democratic and Republican nominees in the election campaign because the preliminary decision whether it's to be Johnson or Kennedy for the Democrats will set up the issues.

On the Republican side, with Gov. George Romney having withdrawn and with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller choosing not to run, Richard Nixon is the nominee-apparent, with seemingly little likelihood at this time of a convention fight that would discard him. He is going to Miami like Barry Goldwater went to San Francisco in 1964, with the nomination in a sack. Viewed without political passion, the situation isn't ideal. The Republicans, who before the New Hampshire primary had a whole clutch of bright prospects for the nomination, are now down to old pro Nixon.

He would probably rather face Johnson than Kennedy. The "We must have a change" theme would have been erased by the Democrats themselves if they were to nominate Kennedy.

The developments put new emphasis on hard politicking, an art in which the President, Kennedy and Nixon are all impressively talented and experienced. President John F. Kennedy proved that despite tradition a Catholic could be elected President. His brother will undertake to prove that despite tradition a party can dump its President and elect his successor. It has only happened once and things have changed a lot and made it much more difficult since James Buchanan did it in 1856.

Unreachable Majority

Two social scientists at the University of Michigan claim that studies show that newspaper stories or television programs dealing with world affairs generally attract only the small proportion of the population that is already well-informed.

Conversely, those least informed or least interested are most likely to "tune out" mass media information. Most people, maintain John P. Robinson and James W. Swinehart, have little understanding of distant events, distrust much of what they hear about such events and may even be hostile if events seem threatening.

Though newspapers have sometimes been criticized for slighting world affairs, the percentage of space devoted to them is still far larger than the percentage of readers who read such articles, they say. They estimate that only about 10 per cent of the public can absorb the backgrounds of news events.

Failure to reach the mass audience has numerous dangers, not the least of which, say Robinson and Swinehart, is an increase in the already substantial feeling of resentment toward "eggheads" and "professors" by the less-educated.

"A monopoly of programs beamed at the better-educated audiences could serve to create even greater apathy or distrust of government foreign policy among those who can't follow what's happening," they warn.

If the "untouchable" minority was a problem for democracy in India, the "unreachable" majority is an even greater one in this country.

Post Time

Fair Trial Isn't For Our Candidates

Congressman Philip E. Ruppe (R-Houghton) had published in the Congressional Record of March 13 an article by David S. Broder in the Washington, D. C., Post of March 5 on the withdrawal of Gov. George Romney of Michigan from the contest for the Republican nomination for President.

"I am not inserting Mr. Broder's column in the Record because it is friendly to George Romney," said Ruppe, "not even because it is about George Romney. This article is a startling commentary on the relationship between the press, all presidential candidates, and the public and is central to the American system of government."

"Mr. Broder seems to have come to the realization that, in projecting George Romney, there was little realism in measuring his capacity to perform under the pressures of the Presidency. I will go one step further in saying that in Romney's case, shallow clichés about the man's personality and capabilities became current, popular and very 'camp'."

"These clichés fed on themselves and were projected by segments of the news media and opinionmakers in public life. Few made a serious effort to scratch beneath the man's ability, based on his background and performance as governor, to function as President."

Broder wrote in the Post: The news stories describing George Romney's withdrawal from the Republican presidential race as a stunning surprise were accurate, as far as they went, but they told only half of it. The reporters who had covered Romney—myself included—thought it was quite literally the last thing in the world he would do. Even those of us who had been "Romney-watching" since his first campaign for Governor of Michigan in 1962 believed he would carry his pursuit of the presidency to the bitter end—and then perhaps would have to be dragged protesting from the arena.

That epic misjudgment is worth pondering for it is distinctly relevant to a larger process and problem. As Martin Nolan of The Reporter magazine has pointed out, the press has tried and sometimes succeeded in preempting the right to decide who has or does not have the credentials to be considered for the Presidency. In the light of experience, it is fair to question how good the press's judgment is.

Romney's decision was made quite calmly and dispassionately. Those involved say he simply examined the evidence of the impending failure of the most important enterprise of his life and decided without histrionics to step aside and give his party the opportunity to find another leader.

Not only was the decision stunning in its cool reasonableness but so was Romney's manner of announcing it. Indeed, his entire behavior during what must have been, for a proud man, a traumatic 72 hours was exemplary. Several of his intimates were anxious to shift the blame for the failure to others, but there was no bitterness or recrimination or evasion of responsibility in Romney's own words. Just a breathtakingly practical decision to face the facts and do what they required.

People, Events Of Yesteryears

From the Files of the Escanaba Daily Press

25 YEARS AGO

Sid Shank, superintendent of the Escanaba municipal works, was named city chairman of the Victory Gardens campaign here. The appointment was made by E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent and county chairman of the Victory Gardens committee.

Aileen Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Olson, Stonington, who attends the University of Michigan art school, where she is a senior, recently earned a $500 art scholarship and has been elected to membership in the Tau Sigma and Alpha Alpha Gamma honorary art societies.

50 YEARS AGO

The Ed Erickson Co. department store is holding its spring opening with "an exhibit of all that is best in the new apparel for spring, in which the patriotic note of economy finds timely emphasis," according to an advertisement of the store. Music is provided on Wednesday afternoons from 2 to 6.

Delta County now has a Jack Pershing of its own. The son born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Doan was named in honor of "Black Jack" Pershing, commander in chief of the American forces in France.

What was there in the portrait of Romney that emerged from six years of intensive press coverage that prepared the public for this kind of performance? Damned little. This Romney was certainly not "brain-washed," i.e., incapable of distinguishing appearance from reality or of reasoning from evidence to a conclusion. Those who thought that one word epitomized the man missed the mark by a mile.

So, too, did those of us who saw him as a revivalist whose messianic streak would keep him running for President long after the quest had proved futile.

Even those of us who knew there was another dimension to Romney—that he had performed in Michigan, as William Shannon wrote, not as a mystic but as a "shrewd, hard-headed, reasonably pragmatic politician"—did not believe that in the crunch his pragmatism would override his missionary zeal. But we were all wrong.

This is not intended as an apology to Romney. His language too frequently obscured his real meaning, and he contributed to his own defeat. No one can reasonably argue that failure in pre-convention tests augurs well for success as a President.

But on a crucial matter the press also failed. Everyone knows that no President can avoid error. But if we have learned anything from the expensive lessons of the Bay of Pigs and Vietnam, it is that crucial measure of a President is whether he can admit error and change course. From the flood of words written about George Romney, voters ought to have discovered that he was a man who would not let his pride dictate to his prudence. I do not think they learned that.

Nor is this an isolated case. I know of few reporters involved in covering the 1964 campaign who would claim now that they painted an accurate portrait of Barry Goldwater and Lyndon Johnson.

The temptation is to say that reporters should content themselves to set down the candidates' words and make no effort to appraise the men who utter them. But that is no answer. The words can be—and often are—artificial. The reality is inside the men who seek the office; the press abandons its responsibilities if it abandons its effort to probe those men and measure their likely capacity to perform the pressures of the presidency.

But if the press is to continue in this effort, all of us in it ought to be aware of our own limitations and be skeptical of our own judgments. Understanding another human being is about as fearsome a task as one can set for himself. The men who seek the presidency are rarely simple, ordinary souls, of the kind every reporter grew up with or knows from his neighborhood poker game.

Is there any reason—to be specific—to think that Richard Nixon or Lyndon Johnson are easier cases to diagnose than George Romney? What is there in the background of Nelson Rockefeller that would make any newsman supremely confident that he could predict how Rockefeller would function in the White House?

Men will continue to run for President and reporters will go right on covering their campaigns. Caveat lector. Let the reader beware.

Oswald: "Any rubber bridge player sitting South would surely have bid spades and almost surely have insisted on spades as the final contract."

Jim: "He would score 150 points for honors and would have no trouble making his spade game."

Oswald: "Most duplicate players would wind up at four spades also. This South player wanted to get a top score and hoped to make as many tricks at no-trump as at spades. He wasn't happy with his decision when he saw the dummy and noted that the spade bidders would make four odd if West held the king of clubs and five odd if East held that card. Of course, a rubber bridge player would have no worry at the three no-trump contract. There were nine top tricks staring him in the face."

Jim: "I suppose that your hero made five no-trump for a real top while the spade bidders made only four odd."

Oswald: "That's exactly what happened. East ducked the heart lead and South was in with the king. He proceeded to run his spades and West signaled club strength with his first discard. South decided to believe him. East believed his partner also and thought that he would play to beat the contract in case West had been signaling that he held the ace of clubs. Therefore, he discarded two clubs, a diamond, and two hearts on the spades."

Jim: "Then all South had to do was cash his ace of clubs and play the ace and another diamond."

Oswald: "Exactly. East was on lead and forced to play ace and another heart, whereupon dummy made the last two tricks with the queen of hearts and 10 of diamonds."

Ann Landers

Father Of Six Has No Need For Ring

Dear Ann Landers: These past four years have been like a nightmare. It's as if I have been waiting for a bomb to explode. I don't believe you can help me but it will ease my mind to know I asked for your help.

From the day our daughter was born I have felt nothing but contempt for her. Every day it gets worse. I treat her like dirt, but I just can't help it.

We have a son but I have no problem with him. He is a sweet youngster and well-behaved. I rarely have to raise my voice at the boy, but I am constantly shrieking at the girl. She is becoming aware of my hatred and is terrified of me. Frankly, I am terrified of me, too. Can you help me before something horrible happens? — COUNT-DOWN MOTHER

Dear Mother: You are projecting your hatred for someone else onto this unfortunate child. Perhaps it has to do with your husband or your feelings toward your own mother.

You are a very sick woman. Ask your physician to recommend a psychiatrist at once. In fact, ask him to recommend two psychiatrists. A child who has been the object of her mother's intense hatred for four years in all probability needs help, too.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's mother is a great looking gal, has a neat figure and is only 15 years older than I am. Eunice and I could easily pass for sisters. She has laughingly described her husband (number three and 18 years her senior) as "dead from the neck both ways."

Eunice has a good job in the office of a warehouse and is very popular with everyone. In fact, she is too popular. This is the problem. Her husband phoned us twice last week and again tonight looking for her. My husband said to me, "If Mom is using us as an alibi she should tip us off." I looked at him in amazement and said, "I wouldn't play that kind of a game, even for your mother."

We got into an argument about "loyalty" and he insists his mother is an unusually vital woman, that her husband is unquestionably impotent and there is nothing immoral about "protecting" her so she can have a decent life.

May we hear from you? — STILL FIGHTING

Dear Still: This is a decent life? Sorry, I don't buy it. If your husband wants to "protect" Eunice, that's up to him, but you are under no obligation

Harnischfeger Plants Closed

Factory Firing Brings Walkout

Harnischfeger Corp's truck crane and welder plants in Escanaba were not operating today following what the management described as "an illegal walkout" of the employees on the morning shift. The two plants employ about a thousand workers and are the largest employers in the community.

The company issued a statement at noon stating:

"A newly hired third shift employee, after three days on the payroll, was discharged for cause on March 22. The third shift employees at the truck crane plant walked off the job at 6 a.m. today. The first shift employees did not come into the truck crane plant at 7 a.m., when they normally report for work.

"The union stewards, officers and their international representatives advised the employees that their action was illegal and that they should return to work. The union also advised the company that the employees' action is illegal.

The employees advised the company through their union representatives that they will not return to work until the discharged employee is reinstated.

"Since the current labor agreement with Local No. 632, United Auto Workers, provides for an orderly method of settling grievances, the company has advised the union officials that it will not hold a meeting on the discharge case until the employees return to work.

"The company has been in labor negotiations with the union for the last several weeks. The current agreement does not expire until April 15."

The men milling about the truck crane plant gate this morning said that they understood that the union would not negotiate until the company reinstated the discharged employee. This created the stalemate that kept the plants closed this morning.

Union members' version of the grievance was that an employee was ill and was reported sleeping on the job.

Kill Sick Sheep At Skull Valley

SKULL VALLEY, Utah (AP) — An investigation to determine what killed some 6,400 sheep in this desolate, semiarid western Utah valley continued today as ranchers moved into the pastures to shoot other suffering sheep.

In the past 10 days sheep began dying by the thousands and several qualified veterinarians have linked their deaths to nerve gas testing at the Army's Dugway Proving Ground adjacent to the rangeland.

Dr. Mar Fawcett, one of two veterinarians called to the Hatch Ranch—which has sustained more than 90 per cent of the loss—said, "I have no doubts at all that organic phosphate poisoning from nerve gas testing killed the sheep."

He said he based this on lab tests at Utah State University and on private study.

It was several days after the sheep began dying that Army officials withdrew their original denial and said "routine nerve gas" spray had been tested at Dugway March 13.

Fawcett said, "I'm sure if we had known about the testing and had an antidote, many of the sheep could have been saved."

People, cattle, horses, dogs and other animals in the area have not been affected.

GLADSTONE Burglar Hits In Gladstone

The burglar or burglars who have struck repeatedly in the Escanaba area during the past 10 days may have expanded to Gladstone this weekend.

Gladstone police reported five breaking and enterings and another attempt in Gladstone over the weekend.

The method of operation in two of the cases — breaking glass in the front door to gain entry — is similar to that used in Escanaba, where police have reported 16 cases of breaking and entering in the past 10 days.

Gladstone Police listed the following robberies:

Sterling Lumber Co., 1122 Delta Ave., broke window in front door, stole cash register with about $25 in change;

Delta Reporter Printing Co., 11 N. 9th St., broke glass in front door, pried open cash register, took about $25 in stamps and another envelop with undetermined amount of stamps and cash;

American Legion Hall, 19 N. 9th St., forced front door but entry unsuccessful;

Memorial Methodist Church, 1121 Wisconsin Ave., no forcible entry, but strongbox with about $20 in cash taken in ransacking of church office;

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 1201 Minnesota Ave., no forcible entry, but office ransacked, noting appears missing.

Police also reported that the tailgate of a station wagon owned by Don Howes, 1102 Dakota Ave., was forced open and about $62 in merchandise was taken. Howes is a salesman for a gum manufacturing company, officers said.

All of the breaking and enterings, except for the automobile, apparently occurred Saturday night or Sunday morning, officers reported. The automobile was entered about 11:30 p.m. Sunday.

Police are continuing investigation.

Metal Bit Stalls Nuclear Reactor Over 18 Months

MONROE (AP)—A piece of metal, weighing less than a pound, has been removed from a deep-sealed chamber where it had kept a $120 million nuclear reactor out of operation for 18 months.

The crumpled piece of zirconium was removed late Friday night by a team of 10 experts. It was one of six placed in the reactor at the experimental Enrico Fermi Nuclear Reactor near Monroe in southeastern lower Michigan. The plant does not produce mass commercial electricity.

It will still take six months and some other delicate operations before the experimental breeder reactor can generate electricity again, plant manager Walter J. McCarthy said Sunday.

The piece of metal came loose Oct. 5, 1966, during a 52-hour test run clogging the flow of metallic sodium and partially melting two uranium fuel elements. This caused an automatic shut-down.

Fuel Melted

The clogging of the sodium caused heat to gather, resulting in the melting of two uranium fuel elements.

Since the reactor is completely sealed, a special device had to be designed to take photographs of the entrapped metal, discovered last Sept. 11.

At first, officials believed the metal had been left there by a careless workman during construction in 1959. However, a further study of the photographs showed the obstruction was zirconium.

Special tools had to be designed to remove it, because no tools were available to work within the sealed chamber, which was designed to be permanently closed because of the danger of radioactivity.

Strip Removed
McCarthy said a hole was cut into a 14-inch diameter sodium inlet pipe and a long, flexible tube with a gripping device was pushed through it into the inner workings of the reactor.

A 40-foot tube was dropped from the top of the reactor. And with a periscope and a light inserted, the officials operated the two tubes like mechanical hands and grabbed the triangular piece of zirconium, about eight inches long and five inches wide.

To make sure the same problem does not develop, McCarthy said the tools will be used to remove the five other zirconium strips. They will first have to be unfastened, causing more difficulty.

Adv.

It will take about six months to do this and make other repairs, he said.

The original purpose of the zirconium strips is no longer needed. They were placed in the reactor in 1959 to protect the core in case of a leak in the radio active sodium pipes.

However, the sodium pipes have since been redesigned to prevent such a leak.

No Longer Needed

The experimental breeder reactor, in laymen's terms, is designed to produce more fuel than it consumes. The metallic sodium is used to transport the radio active heat from the reactor to a section where it is generated into steam.

The steam, in turn, is converted into electricity.

The reactor is designed to produce 65,000 kilowatts enough to provide electricity for a city of 75,000 persons.

Since the reactor began some successful performances in 1963, the system has been used only experimentally to provide electricity for actual home use.

The Fermi plant, a long-term experiment, is hoped to someday provide nuclear-powered electricity for America's homes. So far, it has produced only $300,000 worth of electricity.

School Must Pay Prevailing Building Wage

LANSING (AP) — The state's public school chief reminded the schools today that they must pay construction workers, in most cases, the prevailing wage rate for the area.

Ira Polley, state superintendent of public instruction, reported on a ruling by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley. The attorney general held that a 1965 state law requiring prevailing wages and fringe benefits for workers in construction work on state projects let on competitive bids applies to schools.

"The only exceptions where the clause can be dropped are for projects not assigned to the contractor for competitive bids or for construction work costing less than $2,000," Polley said.

The new law requires that wages and fringe benefits paid to each class of workers by the bidder and his subcontractors cannot be less than the prevailing rate in the locality where the work is performed.

The red-eyed vireo is often referred to as the "preacher bird."

NFO Is Silent On Hog Killing

CORNING, Iowa (AP) — The National Farmers Organization maintained silence today about recent hog killing demonstrations by its members in their campaign to improve prices.

The hog kills in Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, South Dakota and elsewhere in the last couple of weeks have sparked sharp criticism in some quarters, and defense of the NFO in others.

NFO President Oren Lee Staley of Ream, Mo., refused to talk to reporters over the weekend about incidents where NFO members delivered 148 Illinois hogs to a Missouri prison farm to be slaughtered for the St. Louis poor, and others in Britton, S.D., killed and buried about 100 head despite efforts of a national church group to obtain the meat for shipment overseas.

An NFO official at the militant farm organization's headquarters here said any statement would have to come from Staley and he was tied up in negotiations with major meat packers and wouldn't talk to newsmen.

Landlord's Death Probed By Police

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Police continued an investigation today into the death of a 72-year-old Grand Rapids man.

The body of Joshua Haynes was found Saturday in his apartment. Police said he had been stabbed at least a dozen times in the back.

Haynes, who lived alone, was believed to be the victim of a robbery. He often carried large sums of money, the profits from rental properties, police said.

50 Gallons Sap Needed To Make One Gallon Syrup

RAPID RIVER — It takes about 50 gallons of maple sap to make one gallon of maple syrup, Cub Scouts of Pack 414, Rapid River, were informed Sunday.

The scouts and families of the pack toured Pineau's sugarbush north of Rapid River. Pineau explained that he taps over 3,000 trees with the larger trees tapped more than once. From the 3,000 trees, he continued, he anticipates to collect 50,000 gallons of sap, producing about 1,000 gallons of maple syrup.

Pineau said he has been operating the maple grove for 42 years, tapping trees about April 1 each year. He told the scouts that he used different colored covers to help him keep track of which pails have been picked up on which day.

The group also toured the evaporator shed and Pineau explained the operations of making maple syrup. The tour replaced the April Pack meeting. Cub Pack 414 is sponsored by Amvets Post 123.

HOME FURNITURE NEWS

by
Clyde Anderson

WHERE YOU BUY, you'll often hear it said, is just as important as what you buy. That truism is fairly obvious in the purchase of, say an automobile or a major home appliance, when after-sale service is extremely important.

But this common sense saying is equally true when it comes to buying home furnishings. After-sale service is not so vital, though you want to deal with a firm which stands behind the merchandise it sells. But there are other factors.

Selection is one. Within the wide area of good taste in interior decoration, there is plenty of room for individual preference and family needs. You may want furniture small-scaled for smaller rooms. You may be looking for an individual piece of a particular style and color to blend with existing furniture. A sofa may have to fit a limited wall space. A lamp may need to be tall enough for balance with other pieces.

Quality is another consideration. Fine name manufacturers are your assurance of the hidden values of quality construction and expert finishing . . . adding up to lasting value.

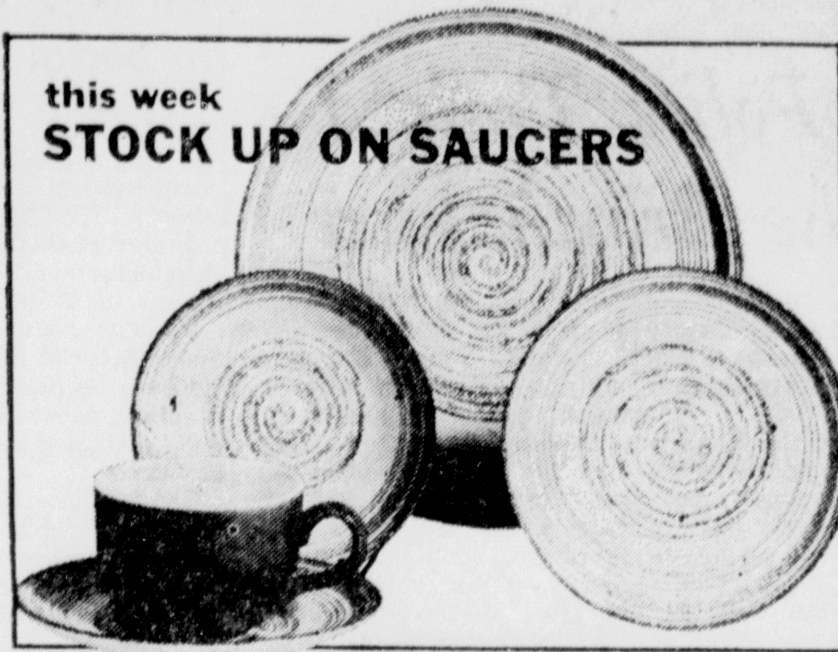

You'll find a superb selection of quality furnishings, in our showroom . . . and in addition, you'll find courteous, helpful service. You don't buy good furniture every day, and we will be glad to help you choose the right pieces.

State Police Trained To Use Breathalyzer

If you're arrested for drunk driving in Schoolcraft County there's a good chance you'll find out what the Breathalyzer is all about.

Five officers of the Manistique Post, Michigan State Police, have recently completed a one-week Breathalyzer training program at Michigan State University's Highway Traffic Safety Center and are now fully qualified to administer the breath test to persons arrested for drunk driving.

Cpl. Donald Davidson, Cpl. David Snowart, Cpl. Frank Malette, Trooper Charles Patterson, and Trooper Robert Bar are the five Manistique officers who completed the training program.

William E. Barber, course director at the Highway Traffic Safety Center, said that the successful completion of classroom and laboratory course work by the officers has given Schoolcraft County the capability of effectively enforcing the law against drunk drivers.

Since last November 2 Michigan has had an "implied consent" law in effect. The law provides that a driver arrested for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor has given his consent to take a chemical test for alcohol.

Under the "implied consent" law the driver has the option to demand that only a breath test be given. Three other common chemical tests used analyze the driver's blood, breath, or urine. Test findings are admissible as court evidence.

The Breathalyzer is a proven instrument for measuring alcohol content of the blood through analysis of the breath. Refusal to take the test could result in the automatic suspension or revocation of one's driving license.

Witnesses Plan Newberry Meet

Jehovah's Witnesses will meet for a three day Christian assembly in Newberry on May 10.

The assembly is being sponsored by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society.

No Policy Shift In Westmoreland Recall, Says Ford

TUCUMCARI, N.M. (AP)—U.S. Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., and House minority leader, says the recall of Gen. William G. Westmoreland from Vietnam may be advantageous to Congress.

"Congress will have a man back who is available on a day-to-day basis to talk about the problems over there," Ford said Saturday at a news conference.

He said he did not believe the recall of Westmoreland will mean any war policy changes in Vietnam.

Westmoreland's job has been "backbreaking and he needs a change for his own health," Ford said. "He's been over there four years."

Ford was in New Mexico to speak at a Republican fund-raising dinner.

'Adopt A Cop,' Is Negro's Advice

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—"Adopt a cop," a Negro leader is advising minority groups here.

If they do this, says Donald McCullum, "people in the ghetto will begin to see him as a human being charged with doing a job for us."

And, said the local president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the policeman "will see us as concerned human beings and not just as crime statistics." He said police should be invited to community meetings and the likes.

Oakland Police Chief Charles Gain said: "It sounds like a very worthwhile positive effort. We will cooperate to the extent we can."

California Dems In 3-Way Battle

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—You'll need a political road map and an experienced guide to find your way through the tangled jungle of tenuous friendships and bitter feuds among Johnson, Kennedy and McCarthy forces in California's Democratic presidential primary.

The main landmarks are easy to see. They are the national convention delegations backing the President, and two rivals battling for the antiadministration vote—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

But behind each of the three are supporters who have been at each others' throats for years. And despite the good intentions of campaign leaders, warfare could break out any day.

Seek 174 Votes

The three are competing in the June 4 primary for 174 votes in the national convention and the prestige and impetus that comes from winning the last major primary before party leaders convene in Chicago Aug. 26.

All are convinced the stakes are high. They are prepared to spend millions to win the presidential primary.

"If the President loses the California primary, I don't know how the Democratic convention could, in good conscience, renominate him," said Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, the state's most influential Democrat, who heads the Kennedy campaign.

"I think it would be very difficult" for Kennedy to be nominated without winning in California, he added.

See GOP Win

Many party leaders, however, fear that the feuding of past years will fracture the party again—and deliver the state to the Republicans in November no matter which Democrat wins the primary in June. Even today, Kennedy forces are quietly recruiting defectors from the McCarthy and Johnson states.

"I am very worried," said Assembly Majority Leader George N. Zenovich of Fresno, a member of the delegation supporting Johnson and his Vietnam policy. Zenovich fears that Democratic fighting could cost the party control of the state legislature.

Unruh, who has been in fights before, promises political peace.

Name-Calling Out "I can assure you that we are not going to wage an anti-McCarthy campaign," he said. "Neither are we going to wage a name calling campaign."

But party discipline is weak in California and Democrats are still angrily blaming each other for Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's victory in 1966.

"There is no Democratic party in California," Unruh once said. He referred to the fact that election laws and political tradition have resulted in a weak state party organization.

There is no political boss here. Politicians build their organizations on shifting personal

40 In House Backing Nixon

LANSING (AP)—Forty of the 56 Republican members of the Michigan House of Representatives have signed a resolution supporting former Vice President Richard Nixon's candidacy for the GOP presidential nomination.

Among those signing the resolution was House Speaker Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe.

The resolution noted that Michigan Gov. George Romney has withdrawn from the race and hailed Nixon as "one candidate who can merge all elements of the party for a victory in November."

Senate majority leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, chairman of the Michigan Nixon for President Committee, praised the efforts of Reps. Russel Strange of Mount Pleasant, Loren Anderson of Pontiac and Donald Bishop of Rochester in obtaining the signatures.

The three said the omission of 16 of the 56 Republicans was not indicative of an anti-Nixon movement, pointing out that it was difficult to contact all of the GOP members.

Williams Named

LANSING (AP)—Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams has been named co-chairman of the State Democratic party Platforms and Resolutions Committee. Williams will work with Dr. Harold Spaeth of Michigan State University in formulating party policy.

Hart, Sperla Lead Teams To Titles In State Event

EAST LANSING (AP) — If you think you have to be tall to be big in basketball, take a look at Willow Run's Dave Hart and Flint St. Matthew's John Sperla, both under 6 feet and both key men in leading their teams to state high school championships.

Hart, a 5-foot-7 power plant, led Class B Willow Run to a 77-65 win over a towering Holland Christian squad Saturday. Sperla led St. Matthew to its second year.

Sperla, a 5-foot-11 speedster who netted 36 points including a clutch basket to stave off a last ditch Vanderbilt effort, also was an all-state halfback last year.

Mark Howe Leads Team To Crown

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (AP) — Mark Howe, son of Detroit Red Wings hockey great Gordie Howe, took the limelight from his father during the weekend.

While the elder Howe was scoring three goals and an assist in two National Hockey League games, Mark led his Detroit team to the championship in the Georgetown International Bantam Hockey Tournament.

Howe scored four goals, including the winner, and assisted on two others Saturday to lead Detroit to a 6-5 overtime victory over Richmond Hill in the tournament's championship game.

It was the first time in the tournament's eight-year history that a U.S. team has won the title.

Detroit reached the finals by defeating Hespeler 3-1 in a semifinal game.

Richmond Hill blanked Essex 6-0 in the other semifinal.

"The greatest shower I've ever had," laughed a dripping All Saints coach, Mike Guza, after his team—led by honor student Stanley Grayson—had nipped a game Saginaw St. Stephen squad.

"Great game. Great win. Eight years of coaching and I finally got a championship," said Guza.

All Saints, rated at the top of the final Associated Press Class C poll, never had won a state title, although they were the runnerup to Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart last year.

Grayson led the Saints with 23 points, including a pair of

Track Records Set At Western

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Notre Dame's Bill Hurd was the star of the 9th annual Western Michigan Relays, setting a new American indoor track record in the 300-yard dash and also bettering the meet record in the 60-yard dash.

Hurd's 29.8-second clocking in the 300-yard dash Saturday night clipped two-tenths of a second off the record set by Mel Barnwell of Pittsburgh in 1959.

Western Michigan University's Tom Randolph also bettered the Barnwell record, finishing second to Hurd in 29.9.

Three other meet records were set by Western Michigan athletes.

WMU's Lee Frost captured the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 8:50.4, eclipsing the 9:01 mark he set last year, and also took the three-mile in 13:50.5. T. T.

The Western Michigan team of Randolph, Horace Coleman, Jerry Missig and Don Castro-novo ran the 880-yard relay in 1:28.1, knocking 1 second off the old record set by WMU last year.

Another meet record was set by Mike Bowers of the Ann Arbor Track Club. His 6-foot, 10-inch high jump was 1 1/2 inches better than the 1963 record set by WMU's Alonzo Littlejohn.

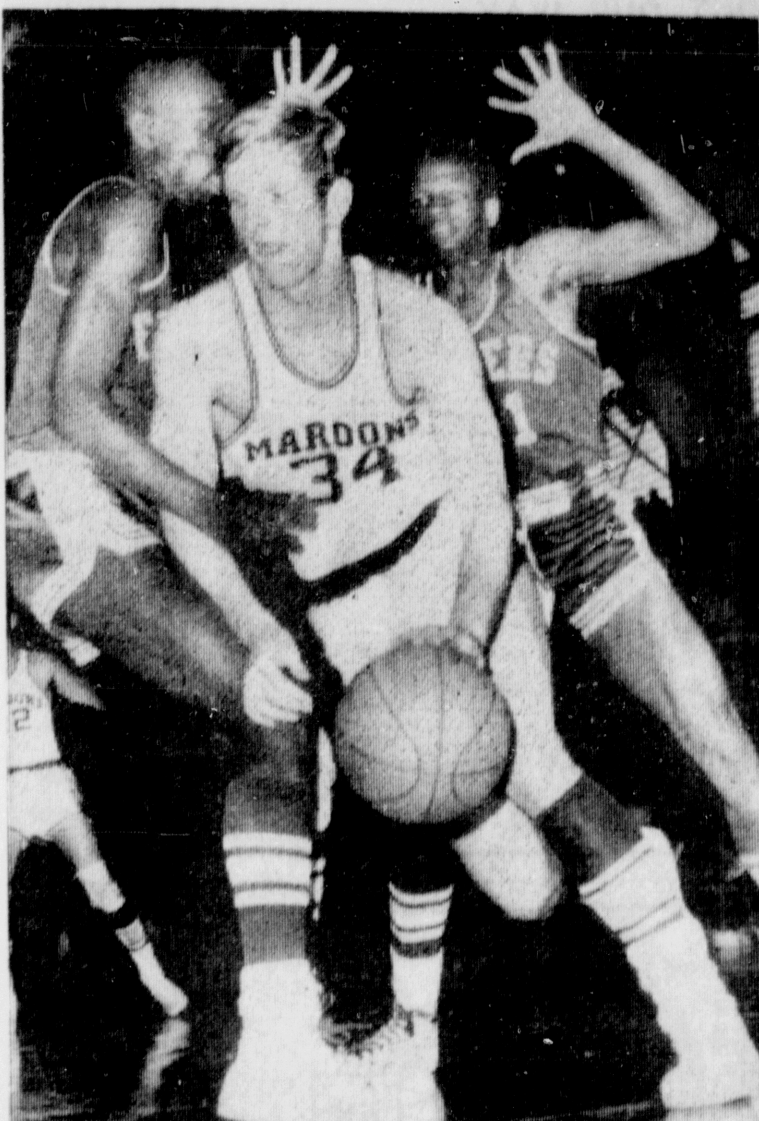

free throws with nine seconds to go, making the score 56-53. A Greg Karl basket at the buzzer rounded out the scoring for St. Stephen. Dick Lawler was the Titans' high man with 21 points.

The cinderella team of the tournament had to be Vanderbilt's Yellowjackets, coming from a little-known Class D school of 74 pupils in a northern Lower Michigan community of something over 500 persons.

Led by Bailey Oliver's 18 points, Vanderbilt almost carried through a rally which would have dumped defending champion St. Matthew. The Yellowjackets also sported a trio of junior starters named Sides—brothers Gregg and Jerry and cousin Earl.

It was the first time Vanderbilt ever had advanced beyond the regional tournament stage.

In the Class A finals Ernie Cryer led Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills to the championship with a 76-68 score over Ypsilanti. It was the Furniture City's first Class A title in the 43-year history of the Michigan tournament.

Ray Floyd Leads Pensacola Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Ray Floyd is trying to erase his image as a golfing playboy, but the 25-year-old Texan still likes to gamble.

The chunky bachelor took a one-shot lead into today's final round of the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament because of a gamble that paid off Sunday.

Floyd, who wiped out an eight-stroke deficit with a blazing 64, eagled the eighth hole after driving into the woods. He was 235 yards from the green, but he saw a six-foot opening between the trees and went for the hole with a three-wood.

The ball stopped 30 feet from the cup, and Floyd knocked in the putt for an eagle 3 on the par five hole.

"I guess it was a good gamble," said Floyd, who turned in a 54-hole total of 202, 14 strokes under par and a shot in front of George Archer and Tony Jacklin. Tom Shaw, the affable young man who led the first two rounds with scores of 63 and 67, was at 204 after a 74.

Floyd's hot round was the best of his pro career, and he credited his improvement play to a lot of practice last winter.

The 205-pounder, who hasn't won a tour title in three years, said his reputation as a playboy has been embellished.

"Sure, I enjoy a beer here and there, and a couple of drinks with friends," he said, "but I sure don't polish off a fifth at every corner."

Detroit Boxer Gets Ring Win

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Detroit, defending co-champion in the Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament, had only one winner in this year's finals and had to settle for sixth place.

In a dull bout that brought boos from the crowd, Leonard Hutchins of Detroit outpointed Formus White of Las Vegas Saturday night for the 178-pound title.

Each fighter waited for the other to make the first move, and it was not until the final seconds that both opened up. Hutchins' victory qualifies him for a spot in the U.S. Olympic trials.

Detroit and Cleveland shared the 1967 Golden Gloves team title with 19 victories each but this year finished well behind first-place Fort Worth, which had 18 victories.

Charlotte was second with 17, followed by Los Angeles, Cincinnati and Kansas City, each with 15; Detroit, 12, and Cleveland, 11.

Leroy Gilmore of Detroit made the finals in the 119-pound division but lost the title to defending champion Earl Large of Roswell, N.M. Gilmore had outpointed Larry Richards of Billings, Mont., in the semifinals.

In another semifinal match, John Jenkins of Grand Rapids, Mich., was outpointed by Ronnie Harris of Cleveland in the 132-pound division. Harris later outslugged Richard Armendariz of Los Angeles for the 132-pound championship.

Tigers, McLain Shutout Yankees

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Denny McLain, whose foot got him entrance to Manager Mayo Smith's doghouse last September, is beginning to pitch his way out of it with his right arm.

The temperamental Detroit Tigers pitcher held New York to five hits in seven innings as the Tigers nipped the Yankees 2-0 in an exhibition game Sunday.

McAuliffe scored both Detroit runs, riding home on a single and a double by Willie Horton in the fourth and ninth innings, respectively.

McLain, 17-16 last year, got on the wrong side of Smith in the September stretch drive when he injured his foot. He was unable to pitch in the final month of the season as Detroit lost the pennant by one game.

"A lot of people don't believe that my foot felt asleep while I was watching TV and I hurt it when I stood up," says McLain. "But it's true."

"I wanted to win as bad as anyone last year," he adds. "But the injury was just one of those things."

"There's nothing wrong with McLain's foot this year. He's pitched well every time out in the exhibition season, allowing just one home run. Last year, he gave up 35.

The Yankees got six singles off McLain and Daryl Patterson, who took over in the eighth. The Tigers had only four hits off New York, two by Horton and two by Al Kaline, who set up the first Detroit run with a single following a walk to McAuliffe in the fourth. Horton followed with a base hit up the middle for the first Detroit run.

The Tigers play the Atlanta Braves today at West Palm Beach, Fla., and then return to Lakeland for a game with the Washington Senators Tuesday.

Celtics Defeat Pistons In First Playoff Clash

By The Associated Press
If the Boston Celtics learn from their mistakes — and there's ample room to believe that they do — then the Detroit Pistons are in for trouble.

Player-coach Bill Russell had little praise and much criticism for himself and others on his team after the Celtics beat the Pistons, 123-116, on Sunday in Boston.

The game was the first clash in the best-of-eight semifinal playoffs in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association.

Of his own performance, Russell said: "It wasn't actually that good a game for me. In a good game, I would normally block more shots and I wouldn't get in foul trouble."

Russell scored a mere 15 points, had nine assists and grabbed 34 rebounds, and benched himself for most of the third period with four personal fouls.

The Celtics, who held a 68-52 halftime advantage, let it slip during the third period, when the Pistons overtook the Celtics, 93-91, by the three-quarters mark.

But John Havlicek scored 11 of his 25 points and Larry Siegfried seven of his 21 during the final period to out the Celtics back in front to stay.

Dave Bing of the Pistons, and the league's leading scorer, was held to only seven points in the first half. He totaled 30 for the game, however, to walk away with high scoring honors.

The two teams meet again tonight in Detroit.

In the Western Division, the Los Angeles Lakers downed the Chicago Bulls, 109-101.

Elgin Baylor scored 32 points, grabbed 23 rebounds and clipped in with eight assists. Jerry West returning after missing the final three regular season games with a groin injury, added a game-high 33 points.

In playoff action Saturday night, the New York Knicks and St. Louis Hawks each evened their series at 1-1. The Knicks beat the Eastern Division champs, Philadelphia, 128-117 in New York and at St. Louis, the Western Division champion Hawks topped San Francisco, 111-103.

In the American Basketball Association Sunday, Anaheim tripped Oakland 147-135 to close the regular season. Both clubs failed to make the playoffs. In post-season play at Minnesota, the Muskies defeated Kentucky, 115-102 in the first game of a best-of-five playoff in the Eastern Division.

The playoffs continue tonight with Boston in Detroit, St. Louis at San Francisco and Chicago at Los Angeles. The Hawks face the Warriors on the West Coast again Tuesday and the 76ers and Knicks play Wednesday in Philadelphia.

Western Blanks Ohio State Nine
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Western Michigan's Charles Mastek held Ohio State to four singles to protect an early lead as the Broncos downed the Buckeyes, 1-0 in the University of Miami Baseball tournament Sunday.

Western scored in the first after Marty Barski drew a walk, moved to second on a single, was forced to third by another base on balls and then came home on a sharp ground-er by Mike Polak.

In the only other game played, sophomore Neale Monte pitched a no hitter to give Miami a 1-0 victory over Army.

Q: Ice Hockey's famed Stanley Cup was once awarded to two teams in the same year. What was the year and who were the teams?

A: In 1907, both the Kenora Thistles and the Montreal Wanderers were awarded the cup.

Alcindor, Bruins Receive Honors In NCAA Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Towering Lew Alcindor was named today as the outstanding player in the national collegiate basketball championships after leading UCLA to its fourth title in five years.

The Bruins crushed previously unbeaten Houston, 101-69, Friday night and then came back for a 78-55 triumph over North Carolina in the title game Saturday. The 7-foot-1½ Alcindor scored 53 points and hauled down 34 rebounds in the two games.

He is the fourth player in history to be voted the honor two years in succession. The others are Bob Kurland, Oklahoma State, 1945-46; Alex Groza, Kentucky, 1948-49; and Lerry Lucas, Ohio State, 1960-61.

Three other Bruins were named to the all-tournament team. With Alcindor on the select five were Mike Warren, Lucius Allen and Lynn Shackelford. The fifth man was North Carolina's Larry Miller. Player of the year Elvin Hayes of Houston failed to make it.

Shackelford was accorded the honor on the basis of his 17 points and great defensive play in the victory over Houston.

Allen and Warren set the tempo of the game early in the finale. Allen wound up with 30 points for the two games and was all over the court against the Tar Heels, stealing passes on the Bruins' full court zone press.

Warren was the court general, guiding the offense and keeping North Carolina's fine sophomore Charlie Scott fairly well bottled up.

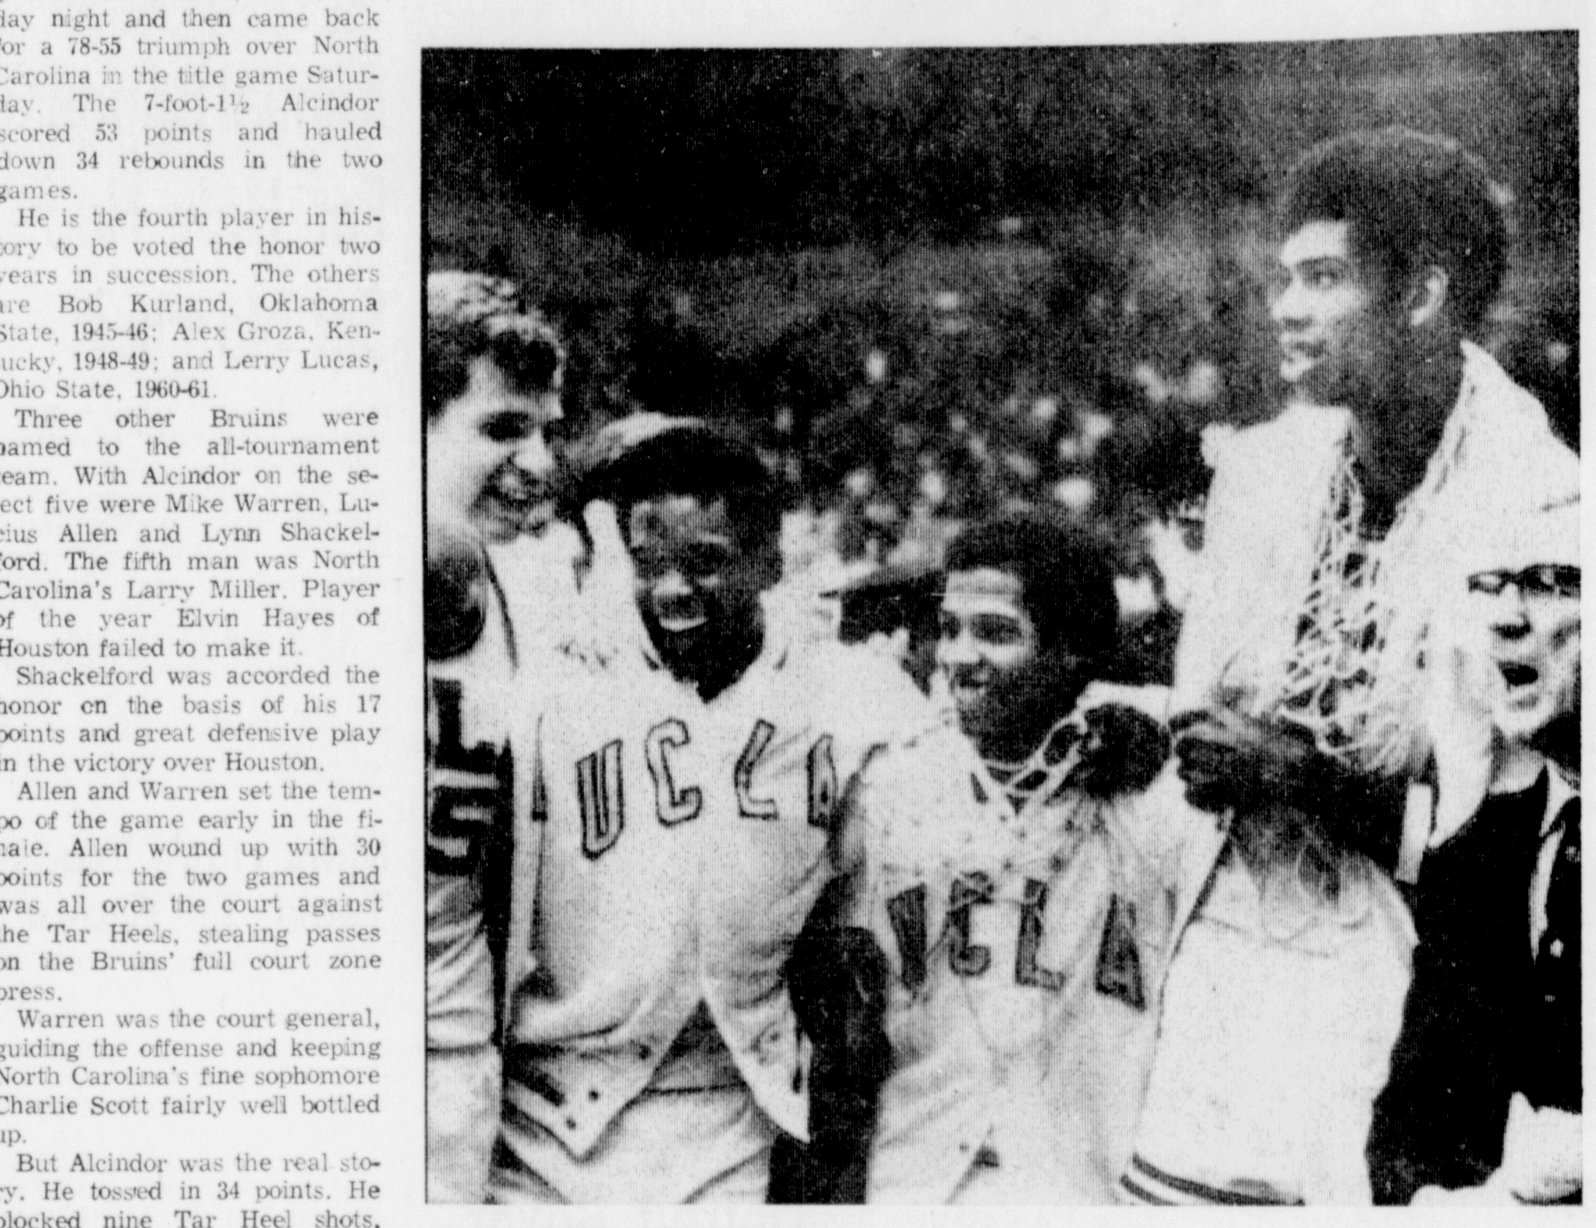

But Alcindor was the real story. He tossed in 34 points. He blocked nine Tar Heel shots, five of them off the hand of 6-foot-10 Rusty Clark. And Lew even stole the ball at midcourt and dribbled in to score a crowd-raiser early in the second half.

Alcindor, Allen and Shackelford all return, along with substitute Kenny Heitz and 6-foot-6 freshman Curtis Rowe, who broke Alcindor's freshman scoring records.

The Tar Heels, champions of the Atlantic Coast conference, tried to slow down the torrid Bruins in the first half by using a "four corner" offense — sending one player to each of the four corners of the fore court and hoping to get the ball to All-American Larry Miller or Scott.

But the defensive efforts of Mike Lynn, Ken Heitz and Shackelford plus the ever-present Mr. A stopped the attempt. The Bruins went into a 2-2-1 zone defense and won going away.

Giants Shutout Angels In Exhibition Contest

By The Associated Press

This is the kind of exhibition baseball season it's been for Manager Bill Rigney—about the only thing he's had to comment on lately is what pitcher has looked best in shutting out his California Angels.

So far, it's been San Francisco's southpaw Ray Sadecki.

"That's the best we've seen his spring," Rigney said of Sadecki's pitching Sunday in the Giants' 4-0 victory over the Angels, who have been blanked in three of their last four games.

"I can see why they were excited about him last year," Rigney said after Sadecki scattered four hits over nine innings. "He must have pitched that way toward the end of the season."

Sadecki finished strongly for a 12-6 record in 1967.

Three of San Francisco's runs Sunday came on Willie McCovey's homer off George Brunet in the fourth inning.

In other games, Houston drubbed Oakland 11-4 for its eighth straight victory, Cincinnati edged St. Louis 6-5, Washington overcame Philadelphia 4-2, Cleveland nipped the Chicago Cubs 5-4, Detroit blanked the New York Yankees 2-0, Baltimore stopped the New York Mets 3-0, the Chicago White Sox beat Minnesota 6-5, Los Angeles downed Pittsburgh 4-0 and Boston whipped Atlanta 6-2.

While Sadecki was making a baseball look like a marble to the Angels, it continued to appear the size of a grapefruit to Sal Bando and Don Pavletich.

Bando hit his eighth homer of the spring for Oakland, and Pavletich belted his fourth and fifth for Cincinnati.

The two-run shot by Bando, who didn't hit any homers in 47 games with the Athletics last year, couldn't compensate for a sour fielding performance by his teammates. They committed four errors, two in the seventh inning when Houston scored five runs.

Pavletich, who socked six homers for Cincinnati last season, drove in the Reds' first four runs with a single and his two blast, and they won it in the ninth on Bob Rauman's triple.

Fred Whitfield's pinch double and Tony Perez's single.

Washington beat Philadelphia by scoring three runs with two out in the ninth inning. Bernie Allen's two-run double brought in two, and the third scored when shortstop Don Money lost a pop fly in the sun.

Cleveland overcame a 4-0 Cub lead by scoring five times in the seventh on a double, two singles, four walks and a hit batsman.

Denny McLain pitched the first seven innings and rookie Daryl Patterson finished up in Detroit's shutout of the Yankees. Willie Horton drove in both Detroit runs.

Eddie Watt yielded two Mets hits in the first inning, then he and Pete Richert, who took over in the sixth, pitched hitless ball the rest of the way for Baltimore. Larry Haney batted in Dave Johnson for all three Baltimore runs.

Pete Ward paced the White Sox, who overcame a 4-1 Minnesota lead, with a home run and two doubles.

Don Drysdale and Jim "Mudcat" Grant combined for a four-hitter against Pittsburgh at Nassau in The Bahamas. Bob Baileu batted in two Los Angeles runs.

Boston was shut out by Atlanta for five innings, but got going in the sixth when Mike Andrews homered.

Dayton Upsets Kansas In NIT Tourney Final

NEW YORK (AP) — Dayton only made it into the National Invitation Tournament by a 10th of a 10-game winning streak, but the turnkey-wise Flyers certainly knew what to do when they got there.

"We had the worst record in the tournament," said Flyer Coach Don Donohue, "and we had to sweat it out getting into the field. We had to win the last game of the season."

The Flyers, who won their last 10 regular season basketball games for a 17-9 record, stretched the string to 14 Saturday by beating Kansas 61-48 for the NIT championship.

Last year, the Flyers surprisingly finished second to UCLA in the NCAA tournament that UCLA won again Saturday night in Los Angeles. The Bruins clobbered North Carolina 78-55 as Lew Alcindor scored 53 points.

Ohio State upset Houston 89-85 for third place.

With sparkling Don May and three other starters back, Dayton was poised for another great year.

May, who won the Most Valuable Player award, hit 17 of his 22 points in the second half when the Flyers broke a 25-all halftime tie and pulled away to their second NIT title in 12 tries.

Dayton won in its last appearance in 1962 after five second place finishes.

May, a 6-foot-4 second-team All-American, who became Dayton's all-time high scorer in the victory, also topped The Associated Press All-Tournament team.

Kansas, which finished with a 22-8 record after its first NIT, placed Jo Jo White on the first five. Others were Larry Newbold of Long Island U., Elnardo Webster of St. Peter's and Bob Whitmore of Notre Dame, which beat St. Peter's 81-78 for third place.

Spartans Lose To Miami Nine

MIAMI (AP)—Michigan State was looking for its fifth victory in seven games today when the Spartans took on Ohio State in the Miami Collegiate Baseball Tournament.

The Spartans were the cause of their own downfall Saturday when they allowed host Miami five unearned runs in the sixth inning without the benefit of a hit and bowed to the Hurricanes, 7-4.

Miami's runs came on five walks, two errors and a hit batsman as MSU starter Mickey Knight and relievers Dave Williams and Phil Fulton all worked in the inning.

The Spartans scored three runs in the fifth inning on a bases-loaded triple by sophomore third baseman Steve Garvey.

The victory was Miami's second in six games. The Miami tournament continues through the week, and MSU has six games to play after today's contest with the Buckeyes.

Pipers' Hawkins Named The Best

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Connie Hawkins, the Hawk, is flying high.

During lean years of one-night stands with the Harlem Globetrotters or playing semipro in the Pittsburgh city league, Hawkins never got the chance to prove he was good enough for the National Basketball Association.

It took him one season with the Pittsburgh Pipers to be named the best in the American Basketball Association.

The Hawk is leading the ABA in scoring, second in rebounds and winner of the Most Valuable Player award from the Basketball Writers Association Sunday.

But he's not crowing, even though four frustrating years trying to crack the NBA climaxed in a lawsuit that accused the league of blacklisting. The suit has been dropped.

"It was just glad to be in basketball this season," says Hawkins. "I'll let the NBA worry about the NBA. I don't even like to discuss it."

But he says the formation of the rival ABA last year "is the greatest thing that could have happened to basketball."

"The guys who couldn't get in the NBA get a chance to play, and the college players like Elvin Hayes get a chance to make more money," referring to the Houston All-American.

Hawkins didn't get a chance to make a name for himself in college. He dropped out of the University of Iowa in his first year and blamed scholastic and financial troubles.

He had been a standout at Boys High in New York City. Two weeks after he dropped out of Iowa, New York District Attorney Frank S. Hogan broke the city's 1961 betting scandals and said Hawkins had been paid to introduce gamblers to players.

The next year, Hawkins gained a spot with the Pittsburgh Pipers of the defunct American Basketball League.

He earned Most Valuable Player honors the first year. The league folded midway through its second year.

He went showboating with the Harlem Globetrotters, then settled down in Pittsburgh and played a little semipro ball.

Hawkins says the competition was good. But he had trouble switching back to the pros.

About midseason he found himself. He was out for a week with a blood clot in his leg, then came back in the last 20 games to average 30 points, pushing his season average to 26.8.

Soldier Support Campaign Drive Raises $50,000

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — and the stations reported some 12,000 telephone calls in response.

Some callers had heard the plea for funds over other radio and television stations which were cooperating in the marathon.

Dr. Bob Plekker, a dentist who organized the project, said the $50,000 in pledges is enough to pay for 100,000 packets, each consisting of a waterproof bag, one pair of socks, packages of presweetened soft drink mix, a pencil and paper and copy of "The Gospel of St. Mark."

Plekker said the response to the marathon, the eighth held across the country since November, was overwhelming and came from hawks and doves alike.

"We're not interested in discussing why our men are in Vietnam," Plekker said, "only in supporting them because they're there."

The Christian Reformed Laymen's League previously held telephone marathons in Holland, Mich.; Elkhart, Ind.; Glendale, Calif.; Oscaloosa, Iowa; Phoenix, Ariz.; Denver, Colo., and Columbus, Neb., and raised a total of $70,000, Plekker said.

This money enabled the League to assemble 100,000 packets which were shipped out of Grand Rapids today. Plekker said more marathons are planned in Seattle, Salt Lake City and Colorado Springs, Colo.

"The guys in Vietnam are going to know their country is chock full of concerned Americans who are interested in their physical and spiritual welfare," said Plekker.

Two of those concerned Americans have volunteered their vacation time to drive the truckload of packets to San Francisco starting today. They will be shipped from the West Coast to Vietnam by military transport, Plekker said.

Sagebrush, a shrub found mostly in the flat plains of western North America, is also found at elevations of 6,000 feet, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Traverse City Poll For Bobby

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — U. S. Sen. Robert Kennedy, the New York Democrat, outpolled President Johnson by more than two to one in the annual presidential popularity poll at the Traverse City Home Builders Show.

The balloting was tabulated Saturday.

Kennedy drew 242 votes to Johnson's 101, showing surprising strength in the traditionally Republican area. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon led all candidates with 290 votes.

New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, a Republican, was fourth with 48 votes, while U. S. Sen. Eugene McCarthy, the Minnesota Democrat, followed in fifth with 36.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan was next with 24 votes. Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace polled 23 votes and California Gov. Ronald Reagan, a Republican, got 16.

For the most part, however, voters were undecided. Of the more than 2,000 votes cast, 1,163 indicated no preference.
